

halo effect may have been at work in the researcher's mind when she placed into a good category those rare borstal girls who had a 5th Form education, had studied at school until 15+ and were of high intelligence. Incidentally there were no specific details given about the kind of intelligence tests that were used for making the assessments of intelligence, and with the researcher's plea for the greater use of objective tests, the chance should not have been overlooked to present whatever objective data was to hand.

My final comment would be that the researcher might well have stimulated some of the positive changes that she received when in her letter to the girls six months after their discharge she used the phrase "I am sure you may be feeling differently now". She may have been right; the girls may have been feeling different, but the data would have been more acceptable had there been no leading question nor any doubt about a self fulfilling prophecy.

A. J. W. TAYLOR.

A Selected Bibliography of Unpublished Criminological Material held in New Zealand Universities

This section is intended as a guide for anyone wishing to undertake research in the general area of crime and punishment. It is not exhaustive and consists of research papers, dissertations and theses held at Auckland, Massey, Otago and Victoria Universities.

Further information on published and unpublished material in this area can be obtained from Mr. E. W. Braithwaite of the Education Department, University of Auckland. Mr. Braithwaite is currently engaged in preparing an annotated bibliography of New Zealand criminological material and would be grateful for any information concerning such material.

For further information on recent research and projects which are currently being undertaken see Gibson R.E. and Harcourt N.E., An Index of Current Research in the Social Sciences 1968-70, National Research Advisory Council, Publication No. 3 (National Research Advisory Council; Wellington, 1971).

AUCKLAND UNIVERSITY

(A) Dissertations for the degree of LL.B. (Hons.)

- | | |
|-----------------|--|
| Akel, R.L. | Chromosomal Abnormality and the Law |
| Brown, D.B. | Female Offending — the Changing New Zealand Pattern |
| Carter, N.J. | Some Aspects of Conflict in New Zealand between the Individual and the Police |
| Hansen, R. | Compensation for Criminal Injuries |
| Keene, B.P. | Mental Irresponsibility and the Criminal Law |
| Macduff, K.I. | The Deterrent Value of Punishment |
| Patterson, R.H. | Analysis of some aspects of the Mental Health Act 1969 |

Witten-Hannah, A.J.H. Law, Liberty, and Morality in New Zealand: the Hart Thesis in the New Zealand Context

(B) Dissertations for the Diploma in Criminology

- Adamson, G. The Mt. Albert Pre-release Hostel
 Donnelly, F.C. A Study of 70 Young Homosexuals
 Foubister, R.A. Adult Pre-release Centre: Mt. Eden
 Fowler, A.G. Attitudes of Employers to the Employment of Ex-Inmates of Penal Institutions
 Jamieson, J.A. The Police and Pacific Island Community in Auckland
 Mooney, B.S. The History and Development of the Youth Aid Section of the New Zealand Police

(C) Theses

(1) LL.M.

- Halls, J.S. Social Conflict and the Criminal Law Agencies
 Stace, M.V. Penal Policy in New Zealand 1961-69

(2) M.A.

- Duncan, L.S.W. Crime by Polynesians in Auckland: An Analysis of Charges Laid Against Persons Arrested in 1966
 Skinner, J.P. The Auckland Probation Treatment Centre: A Comparative Study of a Treatment Sample and a Non-Treatment Sample of Criminal Offenders
 Grinlinton, F.E. Borstal Trainees on Parole 1962-63
 Capie, A.C.M. Social Features and Psychomotor Performance of the New Zealand Offender

MASSEY UNIVERSITY

(1) Dip. Ed. Thesis

- Gibson, R.E. A Case History of a Parolee who has had Continuous Institutional Experience since Early Adolescence

VICTORIA UNIVERSITY

(A) Research papers for the degree of LL.M. (Held on reserve in the law library.)

- Anastasiou, C. Polynesian Gangs in Auckland and Wellington, Part B
 Barnett, A.D. The Detention Centre in New Zealand: A Descriptive Study
 Barnett, P.A. Periodic Detention in New Zealand: Its History and Underlying Philosophy
 Campbell, J.B. A Descriptive Study of Two Child Welfare Institutions
 Chong, T.V. Criminal Legal Aid in New Zealand

- Howman, J.D. Polynesian Gangs in Auckland and Wellington, Part A
- Pearson, A.E. A Penal Policy for Female Offenders in New Zealand
- Rosenberg, G.H. Preventive Detention
- Sisson, N.E. Periodic Detention in New Zealand: A Descriptive Study of Four Youth Institutions
- (B) Theses (Held in the Main Library.)
- (1) LL.M.
- Curry, G.P. Vagrancy
- (2) M.A.
- Gamby Value Orientations in New Zealand Prisons
- Inglis Contemporary Psychological Views on Juvenile Delinquency
- Maxwell, G. Girls in Borstal
- Patchett The Etiology of Paedophilia
- Sheffield Maori Theft
- Taylor, A.J.W. Personality Deterioration and Imprisonment
- Nguyen Ba Tru Recidivism
- Walkey Cognitive Function in Delinquent and Non-Delinquent Boys
- Williamson, B.H. Crime and Mental Illness in New Zealand Women
- Williamson, J.R. A Comparative Study of the New Zealand Habitual Offender
- Wong, D. The Accuracy of the Judgment of Prison Staff
- (3) Ph.D.
- Taylor, A.J.W. An Evaluation of Group Psychotherapy in a Borstal

OTAGO UNIVERSITY

(A) Dissertations for Diploma of Science

- MacAvoy, M.G. Crime and Mental Abnormality: A Comparative Study of Two Groups of Prisoners (This dissertation is not held in the Otago Library; further information can be obtained from the author, c/- Psychology Department, University of Otago.)

(B) Theses

- (1) M.A.
- Fraser, G.S. Parent-Adolescent Relationship: A Factor in Delinquent Behaviour
- Gibbs, W.A. Anxiety and Levels of Aspiration of Institutional Boys. A Study of the Personality Adjustment of Boys at Campbell Park School